CURIOUS CORNER

Originating from the Tamil word "kattumaram", meaning "tied wood", the "catamaran" was initially a simple boat made by lashing logs together. This practical design, crafted by South Indian fishermen, inspired the sleek, double-hulled sailing vessels we use today.

The word "ginger" was originally a Sanskrit word, "sringavera" which eventually morphed into "gingiber" in Latin, then "gingibre" in Old French and finally became "ginger" in English. So, each time ginger is added to a dish, the taste buds go through centuries of linguistic evolution!
